Rural Road Safety Week

Spring has sprung, and its time to get out into the country to see our beautiful countryside here in the Susquehanna Valley. But, be careful. With spring's arrival, farmers are heading to the fields to plant crops, across the Susquehanna Valley and Pennsylvania. As a result, residents in rural areas will be seeing more tractors and large planting equipment on local roads. During Rural Road Safety Week April 15-21, 2012, the Union County Farm bureau is encouraging all motorist to be aware of farm equipment as they travel in rural areas this spring and all year long.

Rural road safety is an important issue year-round, but it is especially important at the is time of year, said Anthony Dietrick, Union County Farm Bureau President. "Farmers will be out planting, and motorist must remain alert for large and often slow-moving equipment."

Dietrick added that a few simple steps can help drivers stay safe when driving on rural roads.

1. Don't Rush - If you drive on rural roads, chances are good that you will encounter farm equipment at some point on your route. Avoid rushing and allow plenty of time to reach your destination safely. This is especially important while traveling during the months between April and November.

2. Pass with Care - If you feel you must pass the farmer on equipment, do so with caution. Be observant of oncoming traffic and for other vehicles that may try to pass. Never pass when curves on hills block your view of oncoming vehicles, you are in a "no passing zone" or within 100 feet of any intersection, railroad grade crossing, bridge, elevated structure or tunnel. Also be careful that the farmer is not pulling to the right to make a wide left turn.

3. SMV =Brake Immediately - the orange triangular Slow Moving Vehicle (SMV) emblem warns drivers of a slow vehicle speed. All farm equipment traveling at speeds of 25 miles per hour or less are required to be marked with an SMV emblem. Once you see it, slow down immediately.

Remain Visible - Don't assume that the farmer knows that you are driving near the rear of his vehicle. While most farmers will check behind them whenever possible, they are concentrating on keeping their equipment on the road and avoiding oncoming traffic. Before you pass, use your car's horn to let the drive know where you are. Farmers may not be able to hear you over the equipment noise.

"Cooperation among farmers and rural motorist is the key to rural roads safety" said President Dietrick. "If farmers and motorist look out for each other, everyone will arrive at their destination safely

Letters Written During WW1 From Jay A. Rigel to Family and Friends

Letter to: Brothers and Sisters (not in an envelope)
Date: July 15, 1918
From: France (Letter head says "On Active Service with the American Expeditionary Force")

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Monday morning and not much to do so will make use of my pen.

Yesterday was a French Holiday so they had a little celebration. We went to the next town about two miles from here. We had two baseball games between the different battalions in the regiment.

Some of the men from my company were transferred to another town to drive and repair trucks.

The roads are very good in this country and trucks can be used to a better advantage than horses and mules.

Many of the people wear wooden shoes and one can hear them a block away.

The people here cut the branches and small twigs from the trees for firewood. The people have enough to eat. They raise their vegetables.

It is hard to buy anything such as sweets and groceries. They are expensive and scarce.

I received two letters from Carrie, that is the only news I got from home. It takes a few weeks for a letter to be delivered from the time it leaves home. It took just one month for the letters I received from Carrie.

We had very fine weather since we landed. The nights are cool and the days are pleasant.

The rumors are that we will move to another town (not very far from here) in a few days. There we will be able to buy sweets and anything we need.

How are you getting along with the business? Have you help enough? Your mail will not be censored. Write and give me the news.

I'm feeling fine. Hope all are the same.

Best wishes,
Your brother, Jay A. Rigel

In addition to the men from Snyder County, there were six women who served as nurses in France. One was my dad's cousin, Elsie Rothermel from Mt. Pleasant Mills. After a post graduate course and when she had passed the PA State Board Exam for nursing, she enlisted as a Red Cross nurse. After being stationed in NJ and NY, she sailed for France and did nursing work at hospitals in Nevers and Saveny, France. She returned to America and was discharged from military duty on August 20, 1919.

The other Snyder County nurses were Elizabeth Focht from Selinsgrove, who was a Navy nurse, also Laura Gemberling from Selinsgrove, Elda Graybill from Paxtonville or Middleburg, Rita MacNally from Selinsgrove, and Adelaide Saltzman from Beaver Springs. Miss Saltzman served in both France and Germany.

Do you know more information about any of the nurses? Was anyone a relative or friend of your family? I'd love to learn more about them. Jean Markley Keiser, 1133 Carolina Ave., West Chester, PA 19380 bjkeiser@verizon.net

Anti-Texting Law to Took Effect March 8 in Pennsylvania

Pennsylvania's new law prohibiting text-based communication while driving took effect at 12:01 a.m. on March 8, making texting while driving a primary offense carrying a $50 fine.

"Your most important job when behind the wheel is to focus only on driving. Most people would never close their eyes for five seconds while driving, but that's how long you take your eyes of the road, or even longer, every time you send or read a text message," PennDOT Secretary Barry J. Schoch said. "It's not just your own life you're risking; it's the lives and safety of every motorist around you."

The new law specifically does the following:

- Makes it a primary offense to use an Interactive Wireless Communication Device (IWCD) to send, read or write a text-based message.
- Defines an IWCD as a wireless phone, personal digital assistant, smartphone, portable or mobile computer or similar devices that can be used for texting, instant messaging, emailing or browsing the Internet.
- Defines a text-based message as a text message, instant message, email or other written communication composed or received on an IWCD.
- Institutes a $50 fine for convictions.
- Makes clear that this law supersedes and preempts any local ordinances restricting the use of interactive wireless devices by drivers.

"This is a serious problem and we are hoping that we can educate citizens on the dangers of texting while driving and prevent future accidents," said State Police Commissioner Frank Noonan. "Our troopers will attempt to use observations of the driver while the vehicle is in motion to determine if traffic stops are warranted. An example might be the motorist continues to manipulate the device over an extended distance with no apparent voice communication.

"Ultimately, we hope that our enforcement efforts will create voluntary compliance by the majority of motorists," Noonan said.

In 2010, there were nearly 14,000 crashes in Pennsylvania where distracted driving played a role, with 68 people dying in those crashes.

in the DEA's third National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day, on October 29, 2011, turned in more than 377,086 pounds (188.5 tons) of unwanted or expired medications for safe and proper disposal, at the 5,327 take-back sites that were available in all 50 states and U.S. territories. When the results of the three prior Take Back Days are combined, the DEA, and its state, local and tribal law-enforcement and community partners, have removed 995,185 pounds (498.5 tons) of medication from circulation in the past 13 months.

"The amount of prescription drugs turned in by the American public during the past three Take-Back Day events, speaks volumes about the need to develop a convenient way to rid homes of unwanted or expired prescription drugs," said DEA Administrator Michele M. Leonhart. "DEA remains hard at work to establish just such a drug disposal process, and will continue to offer take-back opportunities, until the proper regulations are in place."

With the continued support and hard work of our more than 3,945 state, local and tribal law enforcement, and community partners, these three events have dramatically reduced the risk of prescription drug diversion and abuse, and increased awareness of this critical public health issue," said Leonhart.

Image For Life – Scanning for a Healthy Future

In an age where health issues are often at the top of the news, people are concerned and aware about their own individual health. Whether they are more in-tune with their own body or concerned about family health history that may affect their future, people often want to be assured there is nothing they need to be following up on with their family physician.

Evangelical Community Hospital recognized the community's desire for preventative health screens and decided this was an area they could contribute to with tests conducted by individuals who are invested in the overall health of patients, by a reputable hospital with accountability for the results. Evan began to offer a program called Image for Life - Scanning for a Healthy Future, to ease people's fears of health issues such as stroke, diseases of the veins and arteries, and heart and lung conditions, while at the same time giving those concerned an opportunity to talk about the findings.

The program is provided at a minimal cost of $125 for each individual. The next scheduled date is Saturday, April 21, 2012 from 7-11 am at Evangelical Community Hospital, Lewisburg. The scans include a general abdominal ultrasound to look at the gallbladder, kidneys, and pancreas, a vascular screen examining arteries and veins, a pulmonary screen to observe basic lung function and an EKG and blood pressure check. After the scans an on-site vascular consultation is held with Dr. Todd M. Stefan, MD, FACS, Medical Director of the Peripheral Vascular Lab at Evangelical Community Hospital.

Dr. Stefan stressed, "Age doesn't matter for this program, if you are looking for a way to take ownership of your own personal health, and you have concerns that you want to have addressed, the hour-long, non-invasive procedures don't pose a risk to patients, and is a great way to take away fear associated with the unknown."

During the consultation, vascular results are reviewed with each individual. In many cases, the results are that the individual is healthy and they can put their fears to rest, but in some cases follow-up is required. Other issues may be identified and the patient can follow up with their primary care physician or specialist. In addition, the results are immediately placed on the Hospital's picture archiving and communication system so an individual's physician can have direct access to what was found during the screens.

People should consider taking part in Image for Life if they have a family history of stroke or vascular disease. Stroke is the major cause of disability and death but has a largely preventable component. Knowing your risk for stroke can help you make changes to your lifestyle now for better quality of life in the future. Individuals who have varicose veins or leg pain and swelling should consider signing up for the screening. These ailments are now addressed with new treatments that help improve or relieve pain and create a more comfortable day-to-day living with very little recovery.

Dr. Stefan said, "These scans are in no way a replacement for the need for a healthy lifestyle in conjunction with regular visits with a person's primary care physician, but they do provide a good general and comprehensive overview for people who have concerns about their overall health."

Taking part in the screens is easy. Individuals should register by calling (570)768-3200 and the night before the test they should not have food or drink after midnight. The tests are convenient and painless and provide immediate feedback.

Junior's Stock Is On The Rise

By Gerald Hodges/the Racing Reporter

Dale Earnhardt Jr. without a doubt has turned the corner.

The 135-race winless streak remains intact. But its end has become a case of when rather than if. Junior has become a story not for where he's been but rather where he's going – straight toward the top of the points standings.

A third-place finish at Martinsville Speedway, his third top-five of the season, shot Earnhardt out of a third-place traffic jam and within six points of leader Greg Biffle.

How well is Junior doing?

He's one of two drivers with three top-five and four top-four finishes. The other is Greg Biffle.

Three of the past four races have seen the No. 88 Chevrolet head the field.

Earnhardt is the highest ranked of Hendrick Motorsports' four drivers.

His second-place ranking in points is his best at this stage of the season since 2008, the year he won his last race at Michigan International Speedway.

Martinsville, a track where Earnhardt collected his fourth consecutive top-10 finish, is indicative of the progress his Steve Letarte-led team has made. He's passing,and passing champions like teammate Jeff Gordon.

The last time Earnhardt held the points lead was after the Talladega Superspeedway race on Oct. 3, 2004.

For Stewart-Haas Racing, the beat goes on.

Ryan Newman's victory at Martinsville Speedway was the organization's third of the 2012 season and eighth trip to Victory Lane over the past 16 races.

Batting .500 ain't bad – especially in an environment as competitive as the NASCAR Sprint Cup Series.

It's fair to say SHR has few – if any – weaknesses. The team's recent run of victories includes wins on short track (two), mile, intermediate tracks (five) and a two-mile layout.

Newman had been winless since last summer's race at New Hampshire Motor Speedway. Teammate Tony Stewart had been doing the heavy lifting, a point not lost on Newman, who collected his 16th victory.

"Just glad I finally contributed," said Newman, smiling, following the race.

Heading to Texas Motor Speedway, Stewart, winner of last November's Texas race, stands third in points. Newman, also a Texas winner, is eighth.

Matt Puccia is the crew chief of the No. 16 3M team at Roush Fenway Racing. You may even have heard driver Greg Biffle credit him with the team's success so far this season. But according to one story, he may have saved Carl Edwards' life?

Puccia and Edwards worked together at Ken Schrader's race shop in the mid-90's as mechanics and general help to the team. One day the two of them were working on putting a rear-end cooler in a truck which was suspended on the team's new car hoist just high enough for Edwards to work under it.

As Puccia put his weight on the top of the truck to help with the project from above, the hoist began to lower and crushed Edwards under the truck. Puccia immediately ran to the control and raised the hoist to lift the truck. He rushed Edwards to the hospital where it was determined that Edwards would live.

"Carl's version of the story is a little different," said Puccia. "He tells people I intentionally lowered the truck on him to try to kill him but that obviously isn't what happened. I told him he was being a baby about it and I actually saved his life by raising the hoist and getting him to the hospital."

Edwards obviously doesn't hold a grudge over the incident as the two have remained friends over the years and continue to argue over whose version of the story is correct.

"I just keep my distance in the shop!" said Edwards.

Camping World Truck Series Notes:

Timothy Peters and Justin Lofton are the only drivers to post top-five finishes in each of the season's first two races. Lofton failed to score a top five in 2011. … What a difference a year also makes for Buescher, who finished third at Martinsville. Buescher failed to qualify for last season's second race at Phoenix International Raceway.

Kevin Harvick's third Martinsville victory was his first driving a Richard Childress Racing truck. The organization has won a race in all eight seasons (1995-99, 2010-12) in which it has competed full-time in the NCWTS.

The current points standings mark the second time in series history that Sunoco Rookie of the Year contenders – King and Dillon – have ranked among the top-five in overall points after race No. 2. The only time rookies occupied top-five positions at this stage of the season was in 1996 – the first year the award was made – when Bryan Reffner and Ron Barfield Jr. were third and fourth after the event at Phoenix International Raceway.

Weekend Racing: The Cup and Nationwide teams are at the 1.5-mile Texas Motor Speedway, just outside Ft. Worth. NASCAR returns to Rockingham Speedway after an absence of 12 years, with a truck race on Sunday.

"The Rock" opened as a flat, one-mile oval on October 31 1965. In 1969, the track was extensively reconfigured to a high-banked, D-shaped oval measuring slightly over one mile in length.

In 1997, it merged with Penske Motorsports, and was renamed North Carolina Speedway. It played host to two Winston Cup races each year through 2003. The final Cup race at Rockingham was held on February 22, 2004 with Matt Kenseth, the winner.

Fri., Apr. 13, Nationwide O'Reilly 300, race 6 of 33; Starting time: 8 pm ET; TV: ESPN2.

Sat., Apr. 14, Sprint Cup Samsung 500, race 7 of 36; Starting time: 7 pm ET; TV: FOX.

Racing Trivia Question: Who won the inaugural Texas Motor Speedway Cup race?

Last Week's Question: NASCAR does not race on two Sunday's during the racing season. One is Easter Sunday. What is the other? Mother's Day.

Attention High School Juniors! You Can Make Money Repairing Cars!

My name is David Hauck. I am the Automotive Technology Instructor at SUN Area Technical Institute. Do you like figuring out how things work? Do you like fixing mechanical things? Do you like challenges? Do you want to make a good living after high school graduation? If you answered yes to the above questions you may want to consider attending the Automotive Technology Program at SUN your senior year.

Currently, local automotive repair businesses are in need of qualified technicians to repair the advanced systems in automobiles. While many high school and college graduates in other occupational areas are struggling to gain employment in these tough economic times, local dealers and independent automotive repair facilities are desperately looking for technicians. The SUN Tech Auto Technology Program has established relationships with these local employers and is currently gaining employment for nearly all students who are successful and demonstrate good work ethics.

The Automotive Technology Program at SUN Tech is certified by the National Automotive Technicians Education Foundation which is the organization that sets program standards which dictate that the program instruct using the latest curriculum, equipment, and methods. In addition, the program has an advisory committee which meets twice a year. This committee consists of local employers, technicians, automotive trainers, former students, and parents who review the program and make sure the program is preparing students for the workforce. In addition, the instructor is required to be ASE certified, have a valid teaching certificate from the Pennsylvania Department of Education, and receive at least 20 hours of annual training in the automotive field.

A rigorous, structured curriculum guides students through the many advanced systems of today's vehicles. Normally a student spends about two hours a day in classroom setting and approximately four hours a day performing diagnosis and repair on actual automobiles. The program guides students through shop and equipment safety, electrical systems, braking systems, steering and suspension, engine repair, computerized engine control, and mobile air conditioning. Students, upon successful completion will receive Safety and Pollution Prevention Certification, Valvoline Motor Oil Basics Certification, NATEF Certification, PA State Inspection Certification, Gates Certification, NOCTI Certification, and MACS Section 609 Mobile Air Conditioning Certification.

In addition to employment opportunities after graduation, students have additional options available. Qualifying students may elect to enter the Cooperative Education program which allows a student to complete program requirements while working at an approved repair facility. Students may qualify for advanced placement at Penn College, Harrisburg Area Community College, and the University of Northwestern Ohio.

Tremendous opportunities are now available in the automotive repair field! While others are searching for jobs, enroll at SUN your senior year to ensure employment in a challenging field that is in great need of employees. For further information, including the syllabus, employment opportunities, videos, and comments from past students, see us at http://www.sun-tech.org/.

House Bill 1329: Moving the Clock Forward on Pennsylvania's Prevailing Wage Law

Pennsylvania's current prevailing wage law artificially inflates the cost of public works projects, substantially increasing the economic burden on all Pennsylvania taxpayers.

House Bill 1329, currently before the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, relieves mandates for municipalities, school districts and counties. Fully evaluating the merits of House Bill 1329 requires reviewing the history of prevailing wage in Pennsylvania and the facts about this bill.

Prevailing wage became Pennsylvania law for public works projects in 1961. In 1963 it was recognized that certain projects should be exempt from the bureaucracy of prevailing wage bidding and the threshold for exemption was established at $25,000.

The rationale for House Bill 1329 is that projects exempt from this unfunded mandate in 1963 should still be exempt in 2012. This is commonsense reform realizing that projects of similar scope and size cannot be constructed in 2012 for the same cost as they were in 1963.

House Bill 1329 recognizes this fact and adjusts the threshold for exemption from prevailing wage bidding. The new threshold would be adjusted to $185,000 and include an annual index to keep the threshold current with the cost of construction. It is important to understand items not included in this legislation. House Bill 1329 does not limit rates paid to workers or exclude any contractor currently qualified to bid on public works projects from continuing to submit bids.

House Bill 1329 is strongly supported by the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors, Pennsylvania State Association of Boroughs, Pennsylvania School Boards Association, and other local government organizations.

House Bill 1329 is a common sense reform designed to modernize the archaic Prevailing Wage threshold and eliminate unnecessary costs to Pennsylvania taxpayers.
